AGRICULTURE LEADERSHIP PROGRAM FOR

Ce programme est présentement offert uniquement en anglais, mais une session en français sera bientôt disponible, nous vous en informerons.

Have you heard the good news? CAHRC's Agriculture Leadership Program for Women has launched.

This national training initiative was created to help women tap into their leadership potential and form stronger networks as we build a robust, resilient agriworkforce for future generations.

What does the program involve?

- The program uses a blended approach for women working in industry associations and women in agribusiness.
- The curriculum will consist of online training modules, webinars, and self-directed exercises.
- There will be opportunity for participants to network and build connections with other women in the industry. It includes 25 hours of training between November 20, 2023, and March 15, 2024.

In this pilot phase, the program provides financial support for participants who require childcare.

Why does it matter?

Studies show that increasing gender diversity improves productivity, profitability, and retention. For agriculture, which faces significant and increasing labour challenges in the coming years, increasing the proportion of women in the workforce at every level is crucial to success.
